	Q1 2017 / 2018	Q2 2017 / 2018
NUMBER OF ALLEGATIONS IDENTIFIED	1,267	1,140

Key Points

- The number of notifications and reports received by the Commission decreased this quarter, as too did the number of allegations identified by the Commission. This in part is attributed to the closure periods observed by notifying authorities over the holiday period.
- A downward trend in the number of allegations identified pertaining to the Western Australia Police was observed over the last three reporting periods. This trend may be representative of proactive actions undertaken by the Western Australia Police in the previous reporting periods, and is reflected in the decrease in number of allegations for the breach of code of conduct/policy/procedures category.
- The continued decrease in the number of allegations identified relating to Local Government is attributed to the conclusion of the 2017 election program and the completion of significant enquiries into the conduct of individual councils by a number of oversight and regulatory bodies.

Challenges and Opportunities

- The Commission continues to explore ways in which it can increase public sector and community awareness of corruption and serious misconduct risks, following on from the success of International Anti-Corruption Day on 9 December 2017.
- The Commission will shortly announce changes to the Guidelines for the notification of serious misconduct issued under section 30 of the Corruption, Crime and Misconduct Act 2003. Notifying authorities will be advised of the changes through correspondence, with additional information to be available on the Commission's website and social media platforms.
